

Our privacy policy and terms and conditions for using our website

This statement deals with the legal issues around the use of this site, how we present information, what information we collect (such as cookies) and how we use that information. Please read this page before using the site. If anything is unclear, please contact us at the numbers listed on the “contact us” section of the site.

1. Disclaimer

The Context Group Ltd (Context) makes every effort to ensure that the material on this site is current and accurate. But Context cannot give any guarantee - or accept any responsibility or liability - for the information's timeliness, accuracy, completeness or suitability of the content on this site for any particular purpose. You use any of the information on the site at your own risk.

2. Links

Context is not responsible for the content or reliability of hyperlinked websites. Nor does Context necessarily endorse or recommend the views expressed in those sites.

Remember that different terms and conditions of use and privacy policy will apply when you visit a linked website.

3. IP

All intellectual property rights in or arising out of the material on this site are owned by or licensed to Context, unless otherwise specified. This includes the text, design, ideas, images, layout and graphics.

By using the site, you agree not to reproduce, copy, modify, distribute or derive commercial use or benefit from the materials without Context's prior written consent. You may, of course:

- Print or download extracts for your personal and non-commercial use only
- Copy the content to third parties for their non-commercial use, but only if you credit Context as the source.

Also, you agree not to use or permit the use of the materials in a way that Context would be brought into disrepute.

4. General

These terms and conditions shall be construed in accordance with the laws of England.

The contents of this website, including the content of this page are subject to change and to being updated.

Privacy Policy

Context Group is committed to safeguard the privacy of visitors to our website.

1. Information use

You are not required to provide any personal information on our website. However, we may change the site at some stage and provide an opportunity to order publications or to register for webinars or other services. Any personal data submitted will only be used as stated and not passed on to others.

2. Confidentiality

We agree that any information you may provide us will be kept confidential. Context will protect such information as governed by applicable laws.

3. Your rights

Context has a legal obligation to ensure that your information is kept accurate and current. Please help us do that by letting us know of any changes. You have the right to request the information we hold about you and to delete or correct any inaccuracies about you. Please send us a written request to info@contexteurope.com

4. Cookies

Context uses cookies. These are files that are sent to your web browser and stored on your computer. The files help us analyse web traffic. They can't be used to identify you and we only use the information to provide an effective service. You can delete cookies from your web browser or instruct your browser not to store them.